Tower Ticker

by Robert Wiedrich

THE INSIDE SCOOP: Driven in defeat from their once lucrative vice and gambling operations in Cicero by the FBI, gangster chief Joey [The Doves] Aiuppa's hirelings have turned back to the traditional Mafia art of muscle in recent months, offering "protection" for a price to used car and scrap metal dealers.

Spearheading the new racket in the Chicago and northern Indiana areas are Vincent [The Saint] Inserro, onetime Aiuppa vending machine rackets overseer, and Angelo Volpe, a member of imprisoned hoodlum leader Sam [Teetz] Battaglia's crew. The price of joining this not-so-exclusive "club" is $1,000 on the barrelhead, plus weekly tribute ranging from $200 to $300.

And, what makes this racket so cute is that victims are carefully chosen because of their own shady business operations; so there's little likelihood they'll beef to authorities. They're too vulnerable themselves.

Volpe joined forces with Aiuppa's men after he was unceremoniously dumped last year as mob liaison man with the policy racket because too much official attention was being focused upon him.

Volpe quickly immersed himself in his new job but soon learned that having the awesome reputation of a mob muscle man was not necessarily an open sesame to success.

Just about a month ago, Volpe approached a Chicago used car dealer with his not too subtle tough talk and, within seconds, had bitten the dust, beaten so severely he's still licking his wounds.

Despite this minor setback, the revived protection racket marches on. But, some of the victims might take heed of the Volpe incident. The next time one of the kids comes around, slug him with a hunk of scrap iron. That just might send these punks in retreat.

Tower Ticker

by Robert Wiedrich

● JUST TWO LADS ON A LARK: Vincent [The Saint] Inserro, big time Cicero gangster and convicted armed robber and income tax cheat, was resting at the steering wheel of a battered 1959 sedan the other night when police came upon him behind a darkened restaurant in suburban Itasca.

Inserro

At first, the lawmen thought Inserro was merely listening to the chirp of crickets in a nearby vacant lot when suddenly they realized their own squad car radio seemed to have taken on a stereophonic quality.

Peering further into Inserro's car, they spotted a multichanneled police radio monitor from which spewed the nightly grist of crime on the streets. On the dashboard was a siren button just like that in their squad, and elsewhere in the car, a set of what police labeled burglar tools nestled in the dark.

"What are you doing here?" inquired the officers.

"Resting," replied Inserro. "We come here all the time and listen to police calls. It's lots of fun."

Well, it developed that Inserro lacked a driver's license or any other ID, so police hauled Inserro and his passenger, James Savala of Berwyn, off to the station house for a talk.

"I work for the big man who has the juke boxes in Du Page county," boasted Inserro, referring to his ex-boss, Willie [Potatoes] Daddano, now a guest of Uncle Sam in Leavenworth. "Can't we forget about all this and I'll take care of you later?"

The Itasca police were having none of Inserro's proffered generosity. Instead, they wrote him a ticket and sent him packing after impounding his rusting but high powered car. And The Saint sulked off into the night, having once again blown a mob assignment.

In fact, it was just a few months ago that Inserro's penchant for listening to police calls caused him to muff another mission. This event occurred while The Saint was supposed to be riding shotgun on Angelo Volpe's unorthodox sales drive to peddle protection to some Chicago used car and scrap metal dealers.

While twiddling with the squelch knob on his radio monitor, some car-dealer who didn't cotton to Volpe's sales pitch began pounding lumps on that unfortunate's head.

So, while Inserro played policeman, poor Angelo went to the hospital. Better he should listen to Jack Eigen!

The Passing Scene: An office supplier who numbers one of the embattled teamsters union locals among his customers got a rush call from the union the other day, asking for a delivery date on a certain item.

"Sorry, we can't promise a date," said the merchant. "Why not?" demanded the teamster. "The truck drivers' strike," replied the supplier.

While on routine patrol I was patroling the parking lot of Gossage Grill, 1100 W. Irving Park Rd., Itasca. This is done per written request of the owner [redacted] I observed a 1959 Blue Ford parked in the rear with the motor running and two male occupants. I approached the vehicle and as I did, I heard a police monitor. I asked the subjects what they were doing and they stated to R/O that they were resting. They stated that they came here all the time. I asked the driver for some identification and he stated he had none. The driver stated he had no drivers license when asked. R/O asked same how he got the car to this location and he stated he had driven same. I asked the subjects what they had the monitor for and they stated that they liked to listen. I observed a radio (portable type) sticking out of the passengers seat on the floor. Reporting officer observed a list attached to the monitor which was multi-channel, that had channel labeled for Itasca and others for surrounding areas as Berwyn, etc. I told the operator he would have to come to the police station for a drivers license check and also asked if he minded if I looked through the auto. He stated "go ahead". While looking he let me open the glove box. Inside was found another portable FM tuner, and the burglar tools listed. The subjects stated that the radios were used for fun. The radios were taken and the monitor which was wired to the under-dash was left in the vehicle. Officer [redacted] who was present at the incident observed the driver with the R/O while he locked all four doors. At the police station the subjects were asked their names. The name given by one subject was Frank Tuffano at an address in Downers Grove. A check showed a false address and a later, a false name. The subjects continued to give false information. The subject at that time called himself Tuffano(later gave name of Vincent Inserro) asked to speak to R/O in private. R/O took same into a separate office and at this time the subject stated "I work for a big man who has jute boxes and pinball machines in DuPage county. Can't we just forget this and I'll take care of you later". Reporting officer told subject to forget it and put him back in the interview room. The subject was told he would be kept until he gave a correct name so a drivers license check could be made. He was told he was going to be cited for operating a motor vehicle with no drivers license. The parties were asked if they had an F.C.C. license to pperate the radios. They stated no and then stated the radios were a friends. They would not name friend. The two portables had several numbers removed. The subjects were told the radios would be held and turned over to F.C.C. because of lack of license.

The states attorney was called and told the circumstances of the case as follows; the parties refused to give proper names, were monitoring our radio frequencies, had pliers, screwdriver, etc, that could be used for commission of burglary, portable radios they could not explain and the vehicle registered to another party, one [redacted] of [redacted] and they had no explanation of their presence in the area. The parking lot they were in is approximately a block from an industrial area which had numerous burglaries and stolen trailors dropped. Also at the scene the owner of the Grill was asked if he knew the parties, by the R/O and he stated he was wondering what they were doing there for he did not know them. The states attorney stated they could be arrested also for possession of burglary tools. The parties were then placed under arrest for the above charge and given their rights. During the time elapsed the subject who called himself Inserro was allowed to make a phone call to his attorney. He then received three phone calls from his attorney and one from his brother, a Max. The subject was allowed to talk to them. The subject was taken back to his vehicle by [redacted] and the R/O and again asked if we could look at same. He stated "yes". Inserro then took the key which was in his possession at all times and unlocked the car which had all four doors locked. This was observed by R/O and [redacted] When R/O looked in the front seat the radio monitor was gone and all wires gone. The subject was asked who had a key and had come and removed the radio. He stated "no one had a key and what radio". The hood was opened to check if anything had been taken. The vehicle had a large high performance engine and a siren was observed. A check under the dash produced a push switch under the dash and on the steering column an pull switch. When the concealed pull switch was turned on the push button activated the siren and also a spotlight on the drivers side. The car was ordered towed and impounded by this police department. The subjects were taken to the police station and served with the complaint for him and the other subject also served complaint. [redacted] was photographed and printed but the other, Vincent Inserro, stated he would not be printed, etc. Due to the subjects being incarcerated in DuPage where they would be printed the subject was notforced to do so. Both subjects refused to give general information needed for the arrest reports. After all proper paper work the subjects were taken by R/O and Officer. [redacted] to DuPage county jail. During the time in the Itasca station a subject by the name of James Tuffano who stated he was the subjects attorney came and spoke to same. This name if one of the many the subject used.

TO : SAC (92-1173) DATE: 6/22/72

FROM : SA JOHN W. ROBERTS, JR.

SUBJECT: LA COSA NOSTRA

The following administrative procedures are required in connection with each LCN member:

1. LCN Membership Index Card.

2. Submission of FD-385.

3. Statement and documentation in details of a report showing subject's identification as an LCN member.

A continuing responsibility occurs with designation of each LCN member as follows:

1. LCN Membership Index Card - To reflect current information for each subject. Card to be revised and submitted to Bureau when any change occurs in status of subject under any or all captions treated on this card (ie: Localities Frequented: change of residence or addition of new hangouts; Criminal History: incarceration, place and conviction, etc.). The LCN Card should contain the best and most recent photos of the subject. When photos are obtained, consider submission for revised card.

2. FD-385 (Automatic Data Processing) - After original submission, where all applicable categories are completed, an FD-385 must be submitted for any change of status which occurs. Merely check "Status Change" and show only the applicable change. Note, the changes are checked against the LCN card and subsequent investigative reports; hence, a change on FD-385 must be reflected on a revised LCN card within a reasonable time after reporting the change.

3. Reporting information - All information which has been included on the LCN card and submitted on FD-385 must be set forth in the details of a report and documented, particularly, LCN membership. All other items can be treated under appropriate sections of the report (ie: birth verification, citizenship status, family history, employment, etc. can be handled under Background; arrest information under Criminal Prosecutions; associates under Criminal Activities and Associates, etc.).

Note, a system of checks have been set up so that any information reflected in a report can be checked against the FD-385 and thus against the LCN card. It is therefore most imperative that each Agent to whom an LCN member is assigned adhere closely to all of the administrative procedures set forth by the Bureau in handling and reporting the required information.

The Bureau has criticized Chicago for failure to comply with all phases of this program, particularly submission of FD-385, failure to submit changes which are reflected in reports but not reflected on FD-385 or LCN card.

Each Agent should immediately institute a review of his assigned LCN member file to ascertain the following:

1. Has an FD-385 been submitted? When?

2. Has subject's identification as LCN member been reported? What report? (Identify by date and page number.)

3. Has LCN card been submitted? Is card current? If not, has FD-385 been submitted reflecting changes; has revised LCN card been prepared?

This review must be complete and the information furnished to SA ROBERTS by or before June 30, 1972. Any questions should be directed to SA ROBERTS.

SA ROBERTS has identity of approved LCN informants who have identified the subject as a member - any question in this area can be resolved.

A review of the tape recording of the conversation on Friday, August 17, 1973, between JOSEPH GRISAFE and [redacted] disclosed that GRISAFE demanded that [redacted] pay $400 to $500 per week to GRISAFE who claimed that he worked with "The Saint" (VINCENT INSERRO), and was acting in behalf of the Chicago "Outfit". GRISAFE suggested to [redacted] could handle the weekly payments by putting GRISAFE [redacted] GRISAFE told [redacted] that the actual cost to [redacted] would be less than the amount demanded because [redacted] could show the payments as a business expense and therefore, be tax deductible. GRISAFE suggested that the amount paid not be treated as salary to him, but rather as [redacted] so that no withholding would be taken out. b6 b7C b7D

GRISAFE also suggested that he could make money available to [redacted] business, as a loan at regular interest rates, not "juice" (high interest), so that [redacted] could make some "deals under the table".

When [redacted] balked at paying $400 to $500 per [redacted] GRISAFE lowered his demand to $300 per week and told [redacted] he would recontact "them" to suggest the lower amount. b6 b7C b7D

When [redacted] asked GRISAFE what would happen if he declined to pay GRISAFE's demand, GRISAFE said that [redacted] would be put out of business.

A review of the tape recording of the conversation on Monday, August 20, 1973, between GRISAFE and [redacted] disclosed that GRISAFE again demanded $300 per week. [redacted] told GRISAFE he would rather sell his business than pay $300 a week. When [redacted] suggested a possible lump-sum settlement to have GRISAFE leave him alone, GRISAFE indicated that "they" would settle for $15,000. [redacted] said he could consider only about $2,000.

A review of the tape recording of the conversation on Friday, August 24, 1973, between GRISAFE and [redacted] disclosed that GRISAFE now demanded $200 per week from [redacted] and it would be straight cash rather than [redacted] GRISAFE told [redacted] that "they" wanted [redacted] to increase the price by .50 of all items sold by [redacted] so that if he sold 400 items per week, [redacted] would have no problem meeting the $200 per week demand.

On 12/31/74, informant advised that the "Big Guy" in "juice" in this area is "The Saint" (VINCENT INSERRO) and the guy killed in Melrose Park a few days ago was heavy on "juice". The victim (RICHARD MAZZONE) made a couple of mistakes and because of this was living on borrowed time. First of all he got on "juice" in a "big amount". Then he boasted that he did not have any money and "what were they going to do about it". Apparently MAZZONE did a lot of talking and it got back to "the people".

Informant stated to make matters worse MAZZONE was reported to have won a "bundle of money" and word got out in the town about his winnings. MAZZONE still refused to pay back anything on the "juice loan". Informant stated you cannot deal with people like this and live.

Also at this time informant stated his parole status is causing him and others problems. "The people" know that he is not to be seen with any of "them" nor associate with "them". For this reason many of his contacts with old friends has been by phone.

NICK PALERMO [redacted] PALERMO is a big man in the "outfit" and has a profitable plumbing and sheet metal business going for him now. [redacted] PALERMO also has good contacts in the building trade. Informant stated [redacted]

On March 28, 1975, informant previously discussed "THE SAINT", LOUIS EBOLI, and TONY SPILOTRO. He stated "THE SAINT", for all purposes, has retired but like a number of other senior members is always available on a consulting basis.

Concerning LOUIS EBOLI, informant said he heard that since the murder of EBOLI's father, the only thing that is keeping EBOLI from getting into serious trouble is the backing of several uncles of LOUIS EBOLI who live in the west suburban area and also are semi-retired. The latest information heard indicated EBOLI is taking over the pinball operations of his relatives and now employs two or three men to help him with the pinball routes. Informant stated [redacted] tolerated by other members in respect for his deceased father and family relatives who still live in the west suburban area.

[redacted] Informant added that [redacted] with SPILOTRO, he felt sure that this was a young, up and coming member of the mafia and if SPILOTRO does not get "too cocky" he may eventually get the backing of ACCARDO and AIUPPA. Informant again at this time discussed "The Saint" INSERRO. [redacted] informant stated "The Saint" has continually been called on to "hit" someone. Concerning the recent gangland slayings, informant stated authorities mention a number of suspects and that they are looking for "ENGLISH" or "BLASI" but no one is ever looking for "The Saint" and he is the most dangerous one of the whole lot.

This source stated with the present unrest among LCN members and their "workers", INSERRO is a good one to watch. He probably has "knocked off" a dozen people in his lifetime and it was informant's opinion "that's all he's good for".

Informant then referred to prior meeting and conversations with Bureau Agents and related the top structure of the LCN organization still remains the same and the "power structure" will not change for very good reasons. Informant added that once the LCN Bosses show weakness, then there is no way the mob can be controlled. The top man and informant names JOE AIUPPA and [redacted] still have to rule by threats and force in order to maintain any sort of dicipline in the organization. The recent murders previously discussed by this source were sanctioned murders between top members of the organization and were committed for the purpose of keeping members in line and setting an example to anyone with the wrong ideas. b7D

Informant stated that two members who are not young, namely, TONY SPILOTRO, who is in his 40s and "the Saint" INSERRO, who is even older are two guys who with CHUCK NICOLETTI, would readily knock off anyone determined to be out of line. Informant stated that "the Saint" has been useful for this purpose for a number of years. SPILOTRO, who has more brains, has a good change of getting ahead in the organization. At the present time, SPILOTRO is favorably received by several leading LCN members in this area.

Informant stated there are certain individuals who are recognized by LCN leaders as born killers and INSERRO fits this picture perfectly. Informant stated that "The Saint" is well taken care of by the organization and you never hear of him being picked up on gambling raids or getting himself involved in any activity. His function is to maintain the low profile and INSERRO was called on by such persons as TURK TORELLO whenever a serious situation comes up where someone has to be the eliminator. This source stated concerning recent gangland killings that in no way can "The Saint" be eliminated as a suspect whenever the murder appeared to be a "sanction killing".

Captioned subject is a known LCN figure and reputed hitman. Inserro has been a prime suspect in a number of gangland killings most notably Socrates Rantis; Richard Cain, confidant of late LCN boss Sam Giancana; and Leo Filippi, 1974 former chauffeur and frontman for Joseph Aiuppa.

Intensified surveillances at the residence of Joseph Aiuppa, Oak Brook, Illinois, during the period August 1978 through February 1979, place Inserro at this location on a weekly basis with other known hoodlums.

Recent technical coverage at Kleen Aire Chemical Company, Cicero, Illinois, a well known hoodlum hangout, disclosed telephone calls to the subject's Riverside, Illinois residence. Investigation therefore being instituted under the RICO Statute.

SUBJECT: VINCENT JOSEPH INSERRO,
RICO (A);

[redacted] have been subpoenaed b3
and have been made part of instant file. A review of these records revealed little information regarding Inserro's activities.

Contacts with logical sources have been negative re subject's activities concerning a possible RICO violation.

Surveillances of Inserro and associates have revealed little other than subject acting as a driver for Joe Aiuppa.

In view of the fact that there is no information concerning possible violations of the RICO statute to warrant further investigation into subject's activities, it is recommended this case be closed until such information is received to justify reopening investigation.

Criminal History

VINCENT JOSEPH INSERRO, an LCN member, was born on February 6, 1911 at St. Louis, Missouri, and presently resides at 2236 Northgate, North Riverside, Illinois. This individual has a long history of crime and is well known for his violent temper and animal-like behavior.

His name first appeared in Chicago Police Department records during 1930 when he was arrested for larceny and later charged with tampering with an auto. He served 30 days in the County Jail for this. From then on his name frequently appears in the Police records based on arrests ranging from suspicion of murder to larceny.

He was a member of the notorious "42 gang" which included some of Chicago's most infamous hoodlums including SAM GIANCANA. He was convicted for Armed Robbery at Lake County, Illinois, in 1932 and was sentenced to serve one year to life for that crime. He was received there under the name FRANK TUFFANO and it was some time before his true identity was learned. His reputation for secretiveness started then and has continued to the present day among his associates and area law enforcement officers. He has the reputation of never owing anything in his own name and this is born out by the registration on his autos, which are not in his name, and even his home and phone which are in the name of MARIO DE STEFANO, well known syndicate hoodlum and brother of SAM DE STEFANO.

The crime for which he was convicted in Lake County was a vicious robbery in which he and four other armed men forced their way into the home of a Lake Forest, Illinois, family and robbed the home owner and eight of their guests of money and jewels valued at $150,000.

In 1944 he was paroled and apparently did some type of defense work and later during 1944 reportedly worked for a labor union. He did not serve in the Armed Forces during World War II or at any time.

During 1950 Commissioner TIMOTHY J. O'CONNOR of the Chicago Police Department reported INSERRO was a member of a gang responsible for hi-jackings and armed robberies in the Chicago area.

During 1951 it was reliably reported that INSERRO was involved in the attempted robbery of the Bowman Dairy Company in Chicago during which ROCCO BELCASTRO and FRANK PIAZZA were killed by a Brinks guard. INSERRO and three other well known hoodlums were reportedly involved in the crime, however, they escaped. INSERRO has allegedly forced SAM GUZIK to help support PIAZZA's widow since that time.

On October 17, 1951, INSERRO was arrested for the baseball bat beating of [redacted] who attempted to drive organized crime out of that community. INSERRO was captured after a wild 80 mile an hour chase driving a car identical to that observed at the scene of the beating. Although he was tentatively identified, the police were unable to develop enough evidence to warrant prosecution due to lack of witnesses and the fact that [redacted] was so badly beaten he was unable to recall details or an accurate description of his assailant.

During September, 1953, INSERRO was identified as being in the company of three other individuals who attempted to terrorize WILLIAM A. LEE, President of the Chicago Federation of Labor. They curbed his car and advised him, "they wanted in" and that "we mean business, we know where you live." This was investigated by the Chicago Police and it was determined that this was an attempt by organized crime to take over the labor movement in Chicago.

On September 22, 1954, INSERRO stabbed to death a construction worker named ARTHUR EBENROTH across the street from INSERRO's residence. EBENROTH, who was working with some other men, interceded in an argument between INSERRO and some of his fellow workers after INSERRO accused them of whistling at his wife. EBENROTH told him they had merely whistled at a new car. INSERRO stabbed EBENROTH in the stomach. He was later arrested by the FBI after an Unlawful Flight to Avoid Prosecution - Murder warrant was issued for his arrest. He showed no remorse for the murder when arrested and indicated to the arresting FBI agents that EBENROTH got what he deserved.

He was later acquitted by a Cook County Jury on the murder charge after three hours of deliberation. The local press severely criticized the decision and manner in which the case was prosecuted.

Reliable informants have reported over the years on INSERRO's connection with the criminal organization in Chicago known as the "outfit" and have indicated INSERRO's job has been one of being a muscleman and executioner. He was alleged to have killed a New York City union official sometime prior to 1955. He was alleged to have participated in the gangland slaying of ROBERT PAGLIA in the early 1950's. He reportedly "worked over" the owner of the MGM Lounge in Cicero with a baseball bat a few years ago with one [redacted] and thereby became a partner in that business. b6 b7C

The North Riverside Police Department has had numerous dealings with INSERRO who is well known to them because of his violent temper. They have answered disturbance complaints at the residence including the alleged discharge of firearms. Officers of that department have seen his wife badly bruised after her frequent beatings and have, in his presence, seen him slap his son hard so that it knocked the boy off of his feet. They have also called, telephoned that is, INSERRO to tell him they had a warrant for his arrest rather than face him in person at his residence and be confronted with his violent, animal-like temper.

CHICAGO SUN-TIMES - AUGUST 16, 1989

Life of mob 'Saint' a bit sinful

Art Petacque

Vincent "The Saint" Inserro died last weekend, but it's unlikely he's where the saints come marching in.

Inserro, 78, was once the condom king of organized crime, having been given firm control over the prophylactic vending machine business for the area.

The pint-sized hoodlum had a Jimmy Cagney, tough-guy complex. He was a 5-foot, 1-inch little guy who had to sit on pillows when he drove away from mob activities, which authorities said included numerous killings.

He placed vending machines in bars, gas stations, clubs and other establishments throughout the area. The machines were barred in Chicago for many years, due to a powerful lobby from the city drugstores, which wanted a lock on the business.

Inserro was sentenced to prison in the 1960s for failing to pay taxes on $22,975 earned from the machines, but continued to operate his business from behind bars.

Originally from St. Louis, he got the nicknames of "Little St. Louis" and "The Saint." Police booking sheets also recorded him as Joseph Carsoni, Joseph Defiano, Josep Difore, Vincent Perri, Frank Relli, Frank Tufano, Joseph Feranco and Vincent Incerro.

Inserro was known to have a temper. In 1954, a plasterer at a construction site in Cicero noticed an attractive woman walking by and gave an appreciative whistle.

The woman was Inserro's wife. He took offense and stabbed the man to death. Inserro was tried and acquitted.

Witnesses differed over whether the victim actually made the pass. One version was that another workman was admiring a passing auto and said, "It's a beauty. What a doll."

Vincent Inserro in 1952

Inserro's biggest known job was a 1932 heist of $125,000 in jewels in Lake Forest that netted him 11 years in prison.

He was suspected of being involved in several notable Chicago killings, including the 1973 death of Richard Cain, a Cook County Sheriff Department renegade chief investigator who was linked to the mob.

Cain was gunned down in a sandwich shop on West Grand Avenue. Informers said that Inserro originally had planned to kill Cain the day before after inviting him to his home.

Inserro was once hauled into court on a charge that he got mad at a cabdriver, kicked him in the stomach, hit him with an iron bar and threatened him with a gun.

The state declined to prosecute him for a felony. Inserro had filed a countercharge against the bruised and battered cabbie, who couldn't come up with the $100 bond, and the driver ended up in jail for the offense of being beaten up.
